Hundreds of Soldiers & Vets Dying From Antipsychotic - Seroquel
Hundreds of Soldiers & Vets Dying From Antipsychotic - Seroquel

EL CAJON, Calif., Nov. 7, 2011 /PRNewswire/ -- As a neurologist who has discovered and described medical diseases, I (FAB) read the May 24, 2008, Charleston (WV) Gazette article "Vets taking Post Traumatic Stress Disorder drugs die in sleep," and opened and financed my own investigation into these unexplained deaths.

Andrew White, Eric Layne, Nicholas Endicott and Derek Johnson, all in their twenties, were four West Virginia veterans who died in their sleep in early 2008. There were no signs of suicide or of a multi-drug "overdose" leading to coma, as claimed by the Inspector General of the VA. All had been diagnosed "PTSD"--a psychological diagnosis, not a disease (physical abnormality) of the brain. All were on the same prescribed drug cocktail, Seroquel (antipsychotic), Paxil (antidepressant) and Klonopin (benzodiazepine) and all appeared "normal" when they went to sleep.

On February 7, 2008, Surgeon General Eric B. Schoomaker, had announced there had been "a series, a sequence of deaths" in the military suggesting this was "often a consequence of the use of multiple prescription and nonprescription medicines and alcohol.

" However, the deaths of the 'Charleston Four' were probable sudden cardiac deaths (SCD), a sudden, pulseless condition leading to brain death in 4-5 minutes, a survival rate or 3-4%, and not allowing time for transfer to a hospital. Conversely, drug-overdose coma is protracted, allowing time for discovery, diagnosis, transport, treatment, and frequently-survival.

Antipsychotics and antidepressants alone or in combination, are known to cause SCD. Sicouri and Antzelevitch (2008) concluded: (1) "A number of antipsychotic and antidepressant drugs can increase the risk of ventricular arrhythmias and sudden cardiac death," (2)"Antipsychotics can increase cardiac risk even at low doses whereas antidepressants do it generally at high doses or in the setting of drug combinations."

On April 13, 2009, Baughman wrote the Office of the Surgeon General (OTSGWebPublisher@amedd.army.mil): "On February 7, 2008 the Surgeon General said there had been 'a series, a sequence of deaths.' Has the study of these deaths been published?"

On April 17, 2009 the Office of the Surgeon General responded, "The assessment is still pending and has not been released yet." More than a year later and still no explanation, nor further acknowledgement that these deaths even took place.

In a press release, (PRNewswire, May 19, 2009) Baughman wrote: "I call upon the military for an immediate embargo of all antipsychotics and antidepressants until there has been a complete, wholly public, clarification of the extent and causes of this epidemic of probable sudden cardiac deaths."

Googling "dead in bed," "dead in barracks," by April 16, 2009, veteran's wife, Diane Vande Burgt, had Googled 74 probable sudden cardiac deaths. By May 2010: 128, and, by November 2, 2011: 247. Two-hundred-forty-seven!

In April 2010 I was in anonymous receipt of an Army National Guard Serious Incident Report for the 5 months 10/03/09 to 3/7/10. In it were 93 "incidents" including 4 "heart attacks," 6 "cardiac arrests" and 3 "found dead"; 13 of 93 (14%) probable SCDs.

Pfc. Ryan Alderman, was on a cocktail of psych drugs when found unresponsive, dying in his barracks at Ft. Carson, Colo. Sudden cardiac death was confirmed by an ECG done at the scene. Inexplicably, military officials de-classified his death and reversed the cause, calling it instead, a "suicide."

Again I challenge the military to produce the evidence.

In June 2011, a DoD Health Advisory Group backed a highly questionable policy of "polypharmacy" asserting: "...multiple psychotropic meds may be appropriate in select individuals." The fact of the matter is that psychotropic drug polypharmacy is never safe, scientific, or medically justifiable. What it is a means of (1) maximizing profit, and (2) making it difficult to impossible to blame adverse effects on any one drug.

From 2001 to the present, US Central Command has given deploying troops 180 day supplies of prescription psychotropic drugs-- Seroquel included. In a May 2010 report of its Pain Management Task Force, the Army endorsed Seroquel in 25- or 50-milligram doses as a 'sleep aid.'

Over the past decade, $717 million was spent for Risperdal and $846 million for Seroquel, for a mind-blowing total of $1.5 billion when neither Risperdal nor Seroquel have been proven safe or effective for PTSD or sleep disorders.

Ironically, yet not surprisingly, pay-to-play in Washington becomes more egregious every day. Heather Bresch, daughter of U.S. Sen. Joe Manchin, (D-WV) was recently named CEO of WV drug-maker Mylan Inc., that recently contracted with the DoD for over 20 million doses of Seroquel.

Defense Department Health Advisory Group chair, Charles Fogelman, warned: "DoD currently lacks a unified pharmacy database that reflects medication use across pre-deployment, deployment and post-deployment settings." In essence, through a premeditated lack of record keeping, mandated by law at any other pharmacy or medical office to track potential fatal reactions to mixing prescription drugs, the military is willfully preempting all investigations into the injuries and deaths due to psychiatric drugs.

I call on the DoD, VA, House and Senate Armed Services and House and Senate Veterans Affairs Committees to tell concerned Americans and the families of fallen heroes what psychiatric drugs each of the deceased, both combat and non-combat, soldiers and veterans were on?

It is time for the military and government to come clean. SOURCE: Fred A. Baughman Jr., MD

THE LIST

This list now (4/28/15) contains 425 cases of probable sudden cardiac death (SCD). It contained 405 as of 7/15/14; 407 as of 9/11/14; 415 as of 01/28/15. 421 as of 2/22/15. This list supersedes all previous lists..

To the best of my knowledge military officialdom has yet to acknowledge that an epidemic of sudden deaths, i.e., probable sudden cardiac deaths has been occurring in the military in the Iraq-Afghanistan era—the first to much utilize prescription psychotropic medication.

In reading THE LIST bear in mind that Eckart et al [Eckart, R., December 7, 2004 issue of the Annals of Internal Medicine] reported that over the 25-year period, 1977-2001, there were only 126 non-traumatic sudden deaths in the military, most of which (108 or 86%) were exercise-related. Many from our list have occurred during sleep, few with exercise. Of those in the Eckart study who died, 90% were men and the average age was 19 years. Balady, GJ. [ANN INT MED 12/7/04] observed “This retrospective cohort study included 6.3 million U.S. military recruits over a 25-year period (1977–2001).

It would be interesting to compare the overall number of non-traumatic sudden deaths (probable sudden cardiac deaths) of this cohort with all recruits since—those of the Iraq—Afghanistan, psychotropic drug era. It already seems vastly higher with nowhere near complete ascertainment.

I suspect, if and when the facts emerge that we will find that there have been a few thousand such deaths, perhaps a majority of what have been called “suicides” by military officialdom.

I am just now beginning to find more “veterans found dead” perhaps because I have just begun Googling “veterans.”

By no means is this a complete list. Such deaths are continuing to occur with no clear indication that the military leadership will limit the availability of antipsychotics, antidepressants or prescription “polypharmacy” which can never be scientific, safe or effective. I continue to find ‘new’ deaths every time I have a spare hour or two to begin Googling again. I call to the readers attention the posting of Leland Tyrone which the editor of The Gazette tells us was altered at the military’s request. How common or routine are such alterations. How many of these probable SCDs have been called “suicides”? How many “accidental” or “multiple drug toxicities” or “overdoses” when they are none of these things?

There can be no rational or scientific change of psychiatric drug policy in the US military until such time as there has been a full acknowledgement and explanation of these and all similar deaths in the military. Perhaps the pertinent question is “Which soldiers are not on psychiatric drugs?”

While I am listing only US soldiers, I am seeing substantial numbers of Canadian, British and Australian soldiers, as well, dying probable sudden cardiac deaths. Such troops may well be under US command and may be prescribed like amounts of psychotropic drugs, leading to increased numbers of sudden cardiac deaths.

It is to be recalled how rare such deaths were among US soldiers in the Vietnam era.. (Eckhart)

3. Sgt. Mark D Ackerman 28, found dead in a room in Ft Drum on-post barracks, 6.16.11. Probable SCD.
4. *The body of Staff Sgt. Enoch B. Adams, 38, was found June 2, 2008, near a gate to the Fort Polk Army base. There were no indications of foul play. Probable SCD. Several on this list were found dead in their vehicle or in the vicinity of the vehicle.

15. Adrien E. Augustin, 20, DOD August 21, 2009, This 20 yo male collapsed after finishing a physical fitness test and was pronounced dead at a Beaufort hospital. There a several mainly-exertional SCDs on this list, like those which dominated in the 25-year period (1977-2001), when there were a total of only 126 nontraumatic sudden deaths/sudden cardiac deaths of which 108 (86%) were exercise—related.[see Eckhart, R., Sudden cardiac death in the military 1977-2001-2004; Dec 7;141(11):829-34.
16. Gunnery Sgt.Christopher Scott Bachus, 38, died in his sleep at Camp Lejeune, N.C. He received a diagnosis of PTSD—not a disease but a license for psychotropic polypharmacy. In 2005 he was on Celexa for depression, Klonopin for anxiety and Risperdal, an antipsychotic. In 2006, a military doctor discontinued his medications. But six months later, Bachus asked to be put on them again. According to a detailed autopsy report, his depression and anxiety worsened in late 2006. Yet for unexplained reasons, he was allowed to deploy to Iraq for a second time in early 2007. But when his commanders discovered that he was on psychiatric medications, he was sent home after just a few months. In early March 2008, a military doctor began giving him an opiate painkiller for his back. A few days later, Bachus, 38, called his wife, who was living in Ohio. He sounded delusional, she told investigators later, but not suicidal."You know, babe, I am really tired, and I don't think I'll have any problems falling asleep tonight," he told her. He was found dead in his on-base quarters in North Carolina nearly three days later. According to the autopsy report, Bachus had in his system two antidepressants, the opiates oxymorphone and oxycodone, and Ativan for anxiety. The delirium he experienced in his final days was "most likely due to the interaction of his medications," the report said. Nearly 30 prescription pill bottles were found at the scene, most of them recently prescribed, according to the report. Recall, he was on Risperdal, PROBABLE SCD
17. USMC Vet Justin Bailey, 27, was found dead in his room at the Los Angeles VA Rehab Center on March 12, 2007. On Jan. 25, he got prescriptions filled for five medications, including a two-week supply of methadone
18. Pfc Eli Mundt Baker, 22, found dead in the Warrior Transition Unit at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, January 31, 2008.
19. Spc Franklin D. Barnett Jr., 29, was found dead in his barracks at Fort Sam Houston, June 7, 2009.

20. Army Sgt. Maj. Edward "Carl" Barnhill, 50, of Shreveport, died May 14, 2004 of an apparent heart attack after he was found unconscious in a hallway at the Coalition Provincial Authority headquarters in Baghdad, Iraq, May 14, 2004

23. SPC Donnie Wayne Batton, 24, a local military serviceman who was found unresponsive at his North Carolina home last week passed away at Cape Fear Valley Hospital Tuesday, Oct. 29 (2013). A few defy the definition of SCD to get to a hospital but not to respond to CPR there.
24. Sgt. S. Matthew Baynard, 23, died July 22, 2012. His mother said he was wide-awake and coherent at bedtime. His wife said he was snoring at 4 a.m. but dead but still warm, at 7 a.m.
25. On April 3, 2009, Army Sgt. Daniel J. Beard, 24, who had just finished running "a couple of miles," collapsed and died. SCD--exertional.
26. Pfc. Ayonti B. Bennett, 20, was found dead in his barracks room on January 19, 2011. Probable SCD.
27. Spec. Kyle Evan Bergeland, 21, was found unresponsive in his barracks room and pronounced dead November 13, 2012. Probable SCD
28. Spc. Caleb Allen Bezanson, 28 was found dead by fellow soldiers in his barracks, May 18, 2009.
29. Specialist Brandon David Bertolo, 23, is dead (July 19, 2013) days after he was reported missing. His body was found in a training area outside his main post in Fort Campbell, Kentucky. Given the epidemic of sudden cardiac deaths in the military, and no other apparent cause, SCD seems probable .
30. Capt. Felicity Binnier, 40, was found dead at Fort McCoy in Wisconsin, July 9, 2011. Probable SCD.
31. Spc. Steven Jesse Bishop, 29, died on March 13, 2010 at Contingency Operating Base Speicher in northern Iraq of a non-combat-related "cardiac arrest." And we know that psychotropic drugs, even antipsychotics, were in use on the front lines. "Cardiac arrest" their diagnosis.

33. SPC Joe Trinity Blevins, 29, was found unresponsive in his barracks' room, June 15, 2010, and transported to Carl R. Darnall Army Medical Center, Ft. Hood, where he was later pronounced dead. Probable SCD.
34. Pvt Michael Bloomquist, 19, was found dead in his barracks room Jan 17, 2009. Probable SCD.

35. Sgt. Dennis J. Boles, 46, died October 24, 2004 in Camp Arifjan, Kuwait, when he was participating in a 10-mile road march and collapsed. This is probably a SCD with an exertional component
36. Sgt. 1st Class Craig A. Boling, 38, “died of a heart attack on July 8, 2003, while eating with his unit in Kuwait.” The diagnosis of “heart attack” (leading to SCD) was theirs.
37. Fort Leonard Wood officials have identified the soldier found dead Sunday night, March 16, 2008, as Sgt. Jason Boling, 23, of Tennessee. Probable SCD
38. Clarence E. Boone, 50, a chief warrant officer died on December 2, 2009, of a heart attack in Kuwait. “Heart attack” was their diagnosis, the cause of his SCD
39. Cadet Jacob D. Bower died Thursday, July 21, 2011. The 18-year-old was found unresponsive while taking part in a training exercise around 6:05 p.m. Thursday. Military officials told NBC News they believed Bower was a victim of this week's intensely hot weather. Hot weather and exertion are believed to have contributed to this SCD.
40. Master Sgt. Jamal H. Bowers, 41, was found dead at Camp Lemonier, Djibouti, Mar 18, 2011. He had been feeling ill the day before. Probable SCD.
41. Capt. Michael Braden, 31, was pronounced dead at a medical facility on Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan, after being found unresponsive in his living quarters Wednesday morning, April 18, 2012. His wife reports (phone conversation with FB) that he had nocturnal seizures and that he was having psychomotor/temporal lobe seizures even during daytime hours while just on Topamax. Furthermore his wife gave the appropriate diagnosis of SUDEP (sudden unexpected death in epilepsy). This case prompts the question: How frequent is uncontrolled epilepsy/seizure disorders among active duty soldiers? She said his bed was “disturbed” making a seizure the probable cause of his SUDEP. This is the only case of SUDEP on this list. Death by SUDEP is thought to be due to an epileptic seizure leading to increasingly more chaotic cardiac arrhythmias and thus to sudden cardiac death.
42. Staff Sgt. Kenneth R. Bradley, 39, of Utica, MS, dead of a heart attack, May 28, 2003. “Heart attack” was their diagnosis.
43. Sgt. Gene Robert Brandes Jr. a 28-year-old soldier from New Jersey was found unresponsive in his barracks room on Tuesday, May 27, 2014. As will be seen purusing this list, it appears that, if anything, such deaths have become more frequent in 2014 and 2015. But no definitive statement can be made.
44. Petty Officer 3rd Class Matthew David Brandt, 22, of Nashville, Tennessee, was found dead in his barracks at Guam Naval Base, January 19, 2005. Probable SCD.
45. Chief Warrant Officer Terry Lyndel Brewer, 48, was found unresponsive Wednesday, August 30, 2013, at his Killeen residence. Probable SCD.
46. Pvt. Jamal Britt, 19, a Fort Jackson soldier, collapsed Wednesday afternoon (September 10, 2009) and died of ‘heatstroke’ the Army said. He is the third soldier to die in basic training at Fort Jackson since Aug. 20, (2009) and the sixth in the past year. Probable SCD

47. Specialist August Germarne Britto, 25, a Fort Hood soldier, was found unresponsive on Tuesday, December 14, 2010, in San Antonio. Probable SCD
48. Lance Cpl Billy D. Brixley Jr., 21, had a leg amputated then went into cardiac arrest, dying January 27, 2006. Cardiac arrest was their diagnosis. All cardiac arrest cases need scrutiny even those with operative or perioperative cardiac arrest, since drugs could be yet another predisposing factor. Probable SCD
49. Spc. Blake A. Bronaugh, 25, was found dead in his barracks room at Fort Richardson in the late afternoon, November 27, 2008. Probable SCD
50. Pfc. Andrew W. Brown, 28, was found unresponsive and pronounced dead Sunday morning, february 13, 2015, at his family's home in Georgia.
51. Master Sergeant Anthony Thomas Brown, 42, was found unresponsive on Saturday, December 18, 2010, in his home on post. Circumstances of his death not released. Probable SCD.
52. Officials with Fort Bragg say 22-year-old Sgt. Christopher James Brown was found dead during the early morning hours of Dec. 30, 2011 in Johnson City, NY. His cause of death is currently under investigation by the Johnson City Police Department. Probable SCD.
53. Pfc. Brandon L. Burdette, 22, of Ashland, Ohio, was found in his barracks room in Schweinfurt, Germany and died at the scene, February 22, 2011. The cause of death is still under investigation. Probable SCD.
54. Pvt Matthew D. Bush, 20. On August 8, 2003, A fellow soldier tried to wake Bush and noticed he was not breathing. Death was believed to have been from a heat-related illness. Probable SCD.
55. PFC Robert Buskey, 27, died in his sleep on March 2, 2009, two months before he was supposed to leave for Afghanistan. Probable SCD.
56. A Fort Wainwright Soldier, Spc. Aaron Cameron, 22, of Marietta, Ga., was found dead in his barracks room Saturday, February 2, 2008. Probable SCD.
57. Sst Sgt Michael Canida, 32, was found unresponsive in his apartment in Fayetteville, NC, February 19, 2013. Probable SCD.
58. Last week, February 15, 2012, Staff Sgt. Oscar Canon, 29, died. Family and friends say his leg got infected and that after Canon drove himself to the hospital he went into shock, or had a heart attack, ended up in a coma, and died. The possibility that psychotropic drugs were a predisposing factor needs to be considered. Probable SCD.
59. A Rio Grande Valley soldier, Arturo Cantu III, 23, has been found dead. Arturo Cantu III was found unresponsive in his bunk at Fort Lewis on Tuesday, October 15, 2013. An autopsy has been ordered. Probable SCD.

60. Spc. Frederick A. Carlson, 25, was found unconscious in his room at the base in Taqqadum, Iraq on March 26, 2006. A Pennsylvania National Guard soldier, who died in Iraq this spring, accidentally killed himself while “Huffing” or inhaling from a container of pressurized air to get high. Are these actually “Huffing” deaths or are they sudden cardiac deaths perhaps related to psychotropic drug use? See other such cases on this list. Possible SCD
61. Spc. Crystal Joy Carney, 21, of Houston was discovered unresponsive in a house on Sunday May 17, 2009, by another soldier. Probable SCD. “Spc. Carney makes the fifth soldier discovered dead on post this year (2009). Earlier in the week, Army officials released the name of Spc. Caleb Allen Bezanson, (see above) 28, of Ridgecrest, Calif., who was found dead by fellow soldiers in his barracks Monday.
- Two other soldiers were found dead in their barracks in January and a third was found in March. Authorities were investigating at least five other soldiers’ deaths last year.” Speaking of epidemics!*
62. Sgt. Kendale B. Carney, 28, was found dead at her mother's home on August 16, 2008. Her death was ascribed to natural causes. Probable SCD
63. PFC Jonathan C. Carter, 24, based at Fort Bliss in El Paso, collapsed and died during training around 6:30 a.m. Sunday, January 22, 2009. [check date]. Probable SCD. There is a possible exertional component here.
64. Sgt. Gerald Cassidy, 31, who was in one of the (warrior) transition units, was found dead in his room Friday, Sept. 21 2007 at Fort Knox, KY. An autopsy later determined he had been dead for hours and might have been unconscious for days before he was found alone. The Army Criminal Investigation Command determined the death was accidental and caused by a multidrug toxicity complicated by severe atherosclerotic coronary arterial disease. Saying “multidrug toxicity” they seek to implicate all drugs equally thereby exonerating the antipsychotic nearly always part of the prescribed drug cocktail and the one/ones primarily responsible for this probable SCD.
65. SSGT Nigel Castor, 32, was found in a home on base, May 2, 2010, though no cause or time of death has been reported. Probable SCD. This is the 3rd Quantico death in one week. The other two deaths took place on May 2.
66. Justin Chambers a soldier assigned to the Raymond W. Bliss Army Health Center on Fort Huachuca was found dead in a Sierra Vista apartment early Saturday morning, March 10, 2012. Probable sudden cardiac death.
67. Casey Andrew Chapman, age 20,—A Fort Hood (Tx) spokesman says Specialist Casey Andrew Chapman was found dead last Wednesday, February 4, 2015, in his vehicle at one of the training areas on Fort Hood. But the details of his death are not yet known. Probable SCD. There are more than 50,000 people stationed at Fort Hood. Casey Chapman is actually the 5th Fort Hood soldier to die on or near the base in the last two months. Three others were found dead inside their off-base homes, and a one was found shot to death. An Army spokesman says all five deaths are currently under investigation.
68. Sgt. James Chapman, 32, a soldier with the 82nd Airborne Division, was found dead Thursday,

December 4, 2014, in his Raeford, North Carolina home officials said Saturday. The incident is under investigation. Probable SCD

69. Sgt. Sean Phillip Christiansen, 27, of Tigard, Ore., was found unresponsive in the vehicle on Saturday, October 4, 2014, at what Fort Hood (Tx) described as an off-post establishment in Killeen. Fort Hood Wednesday released the name of a soldier who was found dead in a vehicle over the weekend. Probable SCD. Frequently the military publishes death notices in which the name of the deceased is not released, publishing releases with the deceased name only later, perhaps when next of kin have been duly notified.
70. Spec Joel Chuca, 24, of Longmont, CO, was found unresponsive in a Ft. Hood residence Thursday, September 20, 2012, and transferred to the CR Darnall Med Center and where he was pronounced dead that evening. Probable SCD
71. Captain Bruce Kevin Clark, 43, collapsed while speaking to his wife by skype on April 30, 2012 from his base in Tarin Kot, Afghanistan. The diagnosis of “massive heart attack” was their diagnosis. SCD secondary to “massive heart attack.” It remains to be seen (from full record disclosure) whether or not psychotropic medications may have been a contributory factor.
72. Master Sgt. Herbert R. Claunch, 58, of Wetumpka, Ala., died April 18, 2004, in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, after collapsing on the floor in his quarters. Probable SCD. It remains to be seen (from full record disclosure) whether or not psychotropic medications may have been a contributory factor.
73. Pfc. Aaron H. Clawson, 19, of Fort McCoy (WI), was found dead Sunday afternoon, September 12, 2010. Probable SCD
74. Army officials identified 1st Lt. Jeremy Andrew Clawson, 36, as the soldier found dead on a Tuesday in July, 2009, at Fort Sill. A 911 caller reported finding Clawson's body Tuesday afternoon along Mow-Way Road, the military said. Probable SCD. There are quite a number of deceased on this list who were walking or wandering about when they apparently dropped dead right where they were. In this case a 911 caller reported finding Clawson's body Tuesday afternoon along Mow-Way Road.
75. Sgt 1st class Lloyd S Clements, 56, died on March 26, 2003 (a sudden cardiac death), after having a heart attack. St. Petersburg Times October 26, 2003: “His death, and that of a nurse's aide in St. Petersburg and a nurse in Maryland, all within one week in March, occurred after they had received smallpox vaccinations. The three had cardiovascular disease, medical investigators found. The smallpox vaccine was not to blame.” Were psychotropic medications a causal factor in Clement’s death? In this case and a few others on the list it appears there is an attempt being made to blame SCDs on prior vaccinations.
76. Staff Sgt Thomas W. Clemons, 37, of Easter, KY died of a heart attack before going on patrol in Iraq, December 10, 2006. Their diagnosis: “heart attack” causing SCD. The possibility that he may have been on contributory/causal psychotropic drugs needs to be considered
77. Second Lt. Steven Coble, 25 was found unresponsive at about 10 a.m., Sept. 10, 2013, in on-post lodgings and was pronounced deceased. Circumstances surrounding this incident are currently under investigation. This is the second soldier to be found unresponsive on Fort Leonard Wood in the last 30 days. On Aug. 29, Sgt. 1st Class Nathan Dolson Jr. (SEE BELOW), 49, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was found dead in a barrack's bathroom on post. Probable SCD

78. Spc. John Conant, 36, died in his sleep at his off-post home, 04/09/08, after taking morphine and Ambien. A coroner ruled that his death was from “natural causes.” Probable SCD. Cases such as this suggest collusion on the part of coroners/medical examiner.
79. Spc. Nathan Conley, 21, was found dead in his barracks room at the Warrior Transition Battalion on June 27, 2011. Probable SCD.
80. Spc. Pedro A. Consolacion, 20, was found dead in his barracks room at at Fort Rucker, Alabama. February 8, 2004. Probable SCD. Observe how long ago this was. 2004!

- 167.HERMANSON, Adam Hermanson, 25. She was told that her husband, Adam Hermanson, was found dead in his shower. ... Adam returned to Iraq in 2009 as an employee of military contractor Triple ...PROB SCD (SEE FILE) highly suspicious: THE FAMILY of Adam Hermanson, a 25-year-old military contractor who died in Baghdad's Green Zone on September 1--apparently of electrocution in a shower--is alleging that Hermanson's employer, Triple Canopy, initially misled them about how he died. Relatives of Hermanson, a U.S. Air Force veteran who began working for Triple Canopy after his discharge from the military, also say that a Triple Canopy representative told them that the company had dismantled electrical wiring and other equipment in Hermanson's quarters after his body was found, which could make it harder to determine the circumstances surrounding his death. "We're looking for a straight answer, and they haven't given us a straight answer for anything," says Jesse Hermanson, 17, Adam's brother. "We haven't gotten any straight answers from Triple Canopy." Patricia Hermanson, Adam's mother, said that from the first call she received from the company--to inform her of her son's death--she felt the company was not being straight with her about what had happened. On the afternoon of September 1, Patricia was at a movie theater in San Diego when she received a call on her cell phone. Thinking it was Adam, whom she had not heard from in more than a week, she rushed from the theater to answer the call. On the other end, she says, was a Triple Canopy representative named Jeff Wilczak. "He says, 'I'm afraid I have to inform you that your son was found collapsed by his bed, and efforts to revive him were unsuccessful,'" Patricia remembers. In the meantime, Janine Hermanson, Adam's wife, said she received a call from the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad telling her that her husband had died in a shower at his living quarters in Camp Olympia, Triple Canopy's base inside the heavily fortified Green Zone. This discrepancy, according to Patricia, was the first sign that something was off. When she spoke to Wilczak: nothing was mentioned about a shower or anything like that. I would have remembered that. I can remember this until the day I die. He said Adam was found unconscious by his bed, and unfortunately, efforts to revive him were unsuccessful. There's no question in my mind. -----

- - - -PATRICIA SAYS that she was in such shock and pain after learning of her son's death that she asked her brother, Paul Moreno Jr., to handle all communications with Triple Canopy on her behalf. The next day, according to Moreno, Wilczak's story changed. "Wilczak told me Adam had not collapsed in his room, that he had collapsed in the shower," Moreno says. Moreno consulted with other family members, and they developed a list of questions that they wanted answered about Adam's death. When his body was found, were there signs of struggle? Was anything lodged in his mouth? Were there any bruises or scratches or any marks on his body? Wilczak, Moreno says, answered no to every question. As for the issue of marks on Adam's body, Moreno says: "I had half my family at the kitchen table in on the conversation, and I asked him repeatedly that question. Repeatedly. I asked him over and over and over, 'Were there any cuts or scrapes or bruises or marks on his body?' And he said 'No.'" He says that Wilczak did not mention electrocution or electric shock. "Nothing like that." A Triple Canopy spokesperson rejected The Nation's request to interview Wilczak, saying, "As previously stated, the investigation is ongoing, and we cannot comment further at this time." On his LinkedIn profile, Wilczak lists his job as a senior manager and the recruiting operations supervisor at Triple Canopy. Patricia says, "They didn't say why he collapsed; and when they were asked by my brother if there's any bruises or marks on his body, any physical marks that could show any kind of accident or just reveal anything, they said that there's no marks whatsoever." On September 4, the family flew out to Dover Air Force Base in Delaware, where Adam's body was returning to the United States. Triple Canopy brought in a bereavement counselor named Michael Martin to meet with the family. Dr. Martin is identified in a 2006 letter to Congress from a Triple Canopy executive as a "professionally trained and licensed counselor" who is "on retainer for emergencies." Dr. Martin informed the Hermansons that they were to have no further contact with Wilczak and that he would now be their source of information. "When the story changed and they said

[Adam] was found by the shower, we were told not to talk to Jeff anymore, but instead to talk to Dr.

Martin," recalls Patricia. According to Moreno, Dr. Martin said he was a longtime neighbor of Triple Canopy's CEO Ignacio "Iggy" Balderas. "He said he was very, very good friends with him--he said Ignacio was a nice guy," Moreno recalls. On the second day in Dover, Dr. Martin came to the Hermansons' hotel room and told them that Adam's quarters in Baghdad had basically been gutted. "He said, 'Well, I have some information,'" Patricia recalls. "They have removed all the plumbing, the water heater, the electrical wiring" from the quarters. According to Moreno, Dr. Martin told them that "the water heater had been taken out, the electrical box, all associated wiring in the building had been taken out." When the family asked why, Dr. Martin said he thought Triple Canopy wanted to inspect it. Patricia said she thought Dr. Martin was implying that the company didn't want anyone else to get hurt, but his statement also led the family to suspect that crucial evidence may have been tampered with; evidence that could help to answer their lingering questions about Adam's death. -----AFTER AN autopsy was performed on Adam by a military medical examiner, Adam's body was released to a private funeral home that would then prepare the body for cremation, which was Adam's wish. That's when Jesse learned some disturbing news. "When [Adam's] body was taken to the funeral home, my cousin and I stayed behind and we asked the mortician if there were any visible marks, and he said, Well, yes, up on his left arm all the way from his hand to his forearm, all the way up to his bicep, in that general area," Jesse says. Jesse and his cousin took pictures of Adam's left hand, arm and shoulder and provided them to The Nation. The pictures show several marks that appear to be burns and other wounds on Adam's left arm. The family postponed the cremation and performed their own autopsy, the results of which are not yet available. That same day, Janine met with the military medical examiner, who told her that the preliminary cause of death was "low-voltage electrocution." Triple Canopy "told us that there were no physical marks when we had asked them, and they had clarified and said again and again that there was no marks on his body," says Jesse. "Obviously they had just straight-out lied to us." Jesse adds: "When the military did the autopsy, they said that there still was low electrical current in his body." The issue of who, if anyone, may be held accountable for Adam Hermanson's death is a complicated one. Initially, spokespeople for the Department of Defense and the State Department each told The Nation that the other was responsible for the Triple Canopy contract on which Hermanson was working. On September 10, the Pentagon acknowledged that it was in fact a Department of Defense contract. Meanwhile, Triple Canopy will not say who did the electrical wiring or plumbing in the facility where Adam Hermanson died. KBR, which has been under investigation by Congress over the issue of electrocution deaths of U.S. troops, issued a strong denial that it had any relationship to Triple Canopy's Camp Olympia facility. In an interview with The Nation, the Pentagon gave its first statement on the issue: Major Shawn Turner, a Pentagon spokesman, said, "It appears as though our first thinking is that local nationals were responsible for the wiring there." If true, that could put the issue of potential liability on whatever U.S. entity hired those individuals if equipment was not installed properly, as has proven the case at many facilities in Iraq. Maj. Turner said the Department of Defense's Task Force SAFE did an initial review of Hermanson's death but said there is "no indication that U.S. forces will be launching a formal investigation." Even though Hermanson was working for Triple Canopy on a Department of Defense contract, his death, Maj. Turner said, took place at a facility that "does not fall under DoD responsibility." First published at TheNation.com.

Lance Cpl. Ramiro Hernandez III was discovered unresponsive early Monday morning, the family says he will likely be laid to rest next Tuesday.The 24-year-old Marine leaves behind a large, close-knit family -- and his death leaves many unanswered questions. The grief-stricken father says Marines came to the family's Bakersfield home Monday morning to notify them about the death, but the officers didn't have any information on the cause of death."Apparently his friend came in, or something -- or his roommate came in," Ramiro Hernandez told Eyewitness News. "That's all they told me -- or told my wife." The father says Marines told the family the investigation is on-going.Asked if the young Marine had health problems, recent complaints or any changes in his activities -- the father said no. "No, not that he ever told us. I don't know, I don't know what happened."The family says Hernandez joined the Marines late last year, and served with the Third Marine Fourth Regiment. His group was set to go to Iraq later this year, but the family didn't know exactly when.The young Marine had already earned a number of awards. The "Paul Ison" honor was awarded to Hernandez after his fellow Marines picked him for his leadership skills.The father says Hernandez joined the Marines to serve, and with an eye on his future. "He wanted to do that and when he got done, he would come home and be a sheriff's deputy."The family says Hernandez was in boot camp in San Diego, spent time at Camp Pendelton, and was then stationed at 29 Palms. I also spoke to Dr. Tramaine, the doctor who did the autopsy. He informed me that Chris died from being on too many meds, as well as meds that should not have been mixed. He told me that Chris lost consciousness and his heart stopped. So it is as I suspected all along. I just knew he passed due to his meds. However, the report is claiming it was an accident because Chris had had a spritzer that day at the park so they are making out that the mixture of drugs with the alcohol, the temperature at the park that day, as well as Chris being sick from the new med he had just started is what caused his untimely passing. They just don't want to take responsibility that they caused this. I would be honored to have Chris added to the list for the Senator. Thank you so much for all your efforts and continued support! The girls and I will be in Arlington this weekend visiting Chris. Hope all is well your way. Give Shirley our best as well! God bless Rachel Jones. What killed Airman Mena was not an overdose of any one drug, but the interaction of many. Again—found dead, not found comatose, therefore this too was a Probable SCD. Some of them, mixed together, made a deadly combination.Since June(2008) there has been a rash of overdoses at Army hospitals, including some, like Nichols', that have resulted in deaths. The military is not telling truth, I read another article where they stated '120 military personnel have developed myocarditis (antipsychotics cause myocarditis) , or other similar conditions, after receiving the smallpox vaccination, but none have died' and that's just a BOLD FACE LIE!!! My husband's cause of death was Myocarditis, 1 week prior to his death another soldier out of Bragg died suddenly with flu-like symptoms; he too had only been home a few months after serving time in Iraq before he suddenly became sick of flu like symptoms." ...FB: I spoke with NC State epidemiologist Jeffrey Engel, MD, 7 10 08, he would be involved in infectious diseases, but not otherwise as with case of Captain Wright said the deaths of Special Forces Capt.
